Quick, Henry, The Ace; A Bridge Bug

Here's something you fanatical bridge players are always striving for.

Ed Tierney was playing bridge at the Triangle house the other night with Thornton Lewis, Bob Spicer, and John Redwine. After some mediocre luck Ed drew 13 spades.

Everyone else had a good hand and Ed had to bid seven spades to get it. His opponents didn't double.

He made his bid.

KERNEL MAY ADD NEW EQUIPMENT

Negotiations Being Made to Purchase Another Linotype Machine for Printing Plant

NEW COURSE PLANNED

Negotiations are in progress through representatives of the Journalism department and Kernel staff to purchase a new linotype machine to add to the two-machine battery already used by the Kernel printing plant. A course in linotyping is also being planned for the benefit of University students, provided the machine is purchased.

If purchased, the new machine will be placed in the Kernel office before the beginning of the second semester, and the linotyping course may be offered then under the direction of Mr. David Griffith, foreman of the Kernel plant. Attempts will be made ultimately to offer the course as a fully credited one in the Journalism department.

The linotype machine under consideration is the latest Model 14 Mergenthaler and sets head letters and body type. It is a used machine, recovered by the Mergenthaler company of New York and Chicago, and is now located in Huntington, Ind.

The 9-year-old Kernel printing plant, of which the new machine will be a part, is perhaps the only one of its kind in the United States, purchased, owned, and financed entirely by a college newspaper. If the new machine is bought, the cost of the plant will have been increased to approximately $30,000.

THANKSGIVING PLANS ARE MADE

Immediately after the game Mrs. Frank L. McVey will entertain the alumni at a tea at Maxwell place. The competition between sororities and fraternities for the most original and best decorated houses will be part of the program. Prizes will be awarded by SuKy to the winners of this contest at the Alumni dance, which will be held that night from 9 until 1 in the Alumni gymnasium.

Music for the dance will be furnished by the Kentucky Colonels' orchestra. Marguerite McLaughlin is in charge of arrangements.

Katherine Hanly Delivers Address Before Assembly

Katherine Hanly, graduate of the College of Agriculture in home economics class of 1924, was the speaker at the second agricultural assembly of the semester, which was held at 9 a. m. Friday, in Memorial hall. Dean Thomas P. Cooper, director of the Experiment station, presided.

Miss Hanly talked about the opportunities for the graduates in home economics and listed several qualities for which employers look when they select persons to fill positions. As the most important ones, Miss Hanly cited knowledge of the subject, ability to use the English language efficiently, personal appearance, and the right attitude toward work.

Richard Allison, accompanied by Sarah Whitthill, sang "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses," and "The Desert Song." Carlton Ball, graduate of the University in the class of 1911, was introduced to the assembly.

BOOKLETS SENT OUT BY SENIORS

Secretarial Association Sponsors Pamphlet Which Explains Merits of Commerce Grads

IDEA ORIGINATED IN '33

The Secretarial association at the University has issued a pamphlet, "Bargains in Secretarial Efficiency," copies of which will be sent to a number of business men in Kentucky. The purpose of this pamphlet is to obtain positions for the graduates.

This will be the first pamphlet sent out by the secretarial division of the commerce-seniors class, although a series of pamphlets has been issued last year by the commerce-senior class Employment association.

This pamphlet tells of the students who will be prepared to fill the positions of secretaries. It explains to the business man that in addition to the secretarial courses, such as typing, shorthand, office management, business English, and secretarial accounting, all the students have had a varied basic college education. All have taken some courses in education, some in law, and some in agriculture. Many have taken the entire business administration course as offered by the College of Commerce. Quite a few are trained in specific fields of accounting, advertising, marketing, psychology, salesmanship, and statistical methods.

Vesper Soloist Heard in Debut Recital Sunday

James O. Roberts, Baritone, Presents Program in Memorial Hall

By HARRISON ELLIOTT

An audience which completely filled every seat on the main floor of Memorial hall heard James O. Roberts, baritone, Frankfurt, in his debut recital Sunday afternoon. All numbers sung by the recitalist were warmly received, although strange to say, Mr. Roberts saved the best for last, giving better renditions of and drawing more applause on his encore numbers than on any of those of the program list. John Shelby Richardson accompanied Mr. Roberts on the piano.

Mr. Roberts' program was varied in text and music. On the first group Mr. Roberts used "Stornella," by Pietro Cimara; "Ha Maisson Grise," by Andre Messager; and "Chanson a Manger," by Charles Lemaire. Mr. Roberts' interpretation of these songs was most pleasing. Without a doubt, the type of songs in this group is most suited to the lyric quality of Mr. Roberts' voice. The flexibility of the singer's voice came to light in this group of songs.

The second group of songs on the program consisted of "My Bark Canoe," a North American Indian folk song; "At Parting," a Slavonia ballad; "Cherry Blossoms," a Japanese song.

COMMITTEE CHOSEN TO SELECT SPONSOR

John Lewis, Jr., appointed a committee Monday afternoon to select nominees for band sponsor for next year. These nominees will be voted on by the entire band. The girl receiving the majority of votes will become band sponsor. The committee selected was as follows: Roy Hahn, chairman; Fred Moore, William Duncan, Robert McDowell, and William Rose.

SECOND GUIGNOL PLAY IS OPENED

"Mrs. Moonlight" Is Feature All This Week on Little Theater Stage

MRS. D. F. PETTIT STARS

By T. J. ROPKE

"Mrs. Moonlight," which is being presented this week at the Guignol theater, is one of the most difficult plays this group has ever attempted to handle. One finds the Levy play quite a fantasy. It is the story of a lady who wishes to never grow old, and who gets her wish.

Due to the lapse of the time between scenes, it is a hard task for the players, several of whom are inexperienced, to fill their roles. Only four of the cast have ever appeared before on the stage.

Mrs. Moonlight, on her wedding day, receives a necklace which has the power to grant one wish. At the birth of a daughter several years later, she makes a wish she may never grow old. At the opening of the play we find that her appearance has remained unchanged in the last six years. The thought of how she is being talked about by the neighbors and how some day she will become a freak causes her to run away.

After 17 years she returns to visit her husband under the name of a niece whom he has never seen, and finds that she looks no older than her daughter Jane. She vows one (Continued on page Four)

Powerful, Lashing Attack Is Too Much for Squad of Wildcats

CROWD OF 12,000 SEES KENTUCKY LOSE, 31-0

Numerous Substitutions Made By Both Teams; Kelly Is Injured

By JAY LUCIAN

"Little Preacher" Roberts rode the surf board on the crest of Tulane's Green Wave to hopelessly swamp the invading Blue of Kentucky 34 to 0, Saturday afternoon before a surprised crowd of 12,000 in the sultry air of New Orleans. Scoring a touchdown on the fifth play of the game, the Green-clad men swept the demoralized Cats before them to continue a scoring spree that netted them four touchdowns the first quarter, and one the second.

Numerous substitutions were made on both sides at the beginning of the second half and the game was more evenly played; with neither team scoring. Kerceval again out-shone the rest of the Kentuckians on the field and played a stellar game for 60 minutes, punting, passing, and running with the ball, besides playing an outstanding defensive game. Able Ayers ably assisted Kerceval, and played at top-speed while in the game.

Two minutes after his first touchdown, Roberts ran 75 yards to score again. A little later, after an 80-yard punt by Simons, Thomas, a substitute back, scored after Tulane marched 63 yards to the seven-yard line. Roberts converted the first three extra points from placekicks. On the first play after the next kick-off, Kentucky fumbled and Tulane recovered. On the next play Thomas ran 21 yards for another touchdown and he converted the extra point. Roberts left the game before the first half ended.

The last touchdown came in the second quarter after a blocked Kentucky punt was recovered on Kentucky's 19-yard line. Thomas scored with an off-lackle run of 12 (Continued on Page Four)

SPIRIT OF KENTUCKY

"For when the One Great Scorer comes to write against your name, he writes not that you won or lost, but how you played the game." What will he write about the Kentucky Wildcats? What will he write about the student body of the University?

Last Saturday a courageous Kentucky football team was defeated by another team, equally courageous, and unquestionably superior. This defeat has evoked more unjust criticism, more scathing denunciation of coach and team than any similar event within many years at the University. Whom can we rightly blame for loss of the game; and, if we can place responsibility upon anyone, is it the proper spirit to do so?

The overwhelming victory of Tulane was a bitter one for most of us to swallow. We have a tender veneration (although no one would suspect it, at times) for those boys who, fighting under a tremendous handicap, strive for triumph for the Blue and White of old Kentucky. We dislike to see them lose. But to whom could the joy of success be sweeter, the realization of failure more distressing, than to these stalwarts of the gridiron, themselves?

It is not our contention that everything is as it should be. Obviously, something is wrong. If Coach Gamage has not produced a winning team, it is not because he has not tried. A successful season would be beneficial to him. Coach Gamage has perhaps performed the task allotted him to the best of his ability.

Is Kentucky different from other schools? Can she not suffer defeat gracefully and in sportsmanlike manner? It must be remembered that winning a game means just as much to the opposing side. So, be reasonable in commenting on defeat. There are two sides to every story.

OBLIGATIONS AND LIFE

At its best, life is a very complicated thing. This is not an original observation, but it is quite true. Although there are many and varied causes for this, one main cause is a conflict of obligations.

If you will take a pencil and paper and outline the things and people to which you are trying to be true, you will find in many cases that these things directly interfere with one another. Christ has told us that we cannot serve two masters and the hectic life of our modern civilization certainly proves this to be a fact.

It is not a question of trying to do too many things, for if the things which we try to do are related, they may serve to complement one another. It is because the things which we are striving to accomplish are in conflict with one another. So it is that we slight the second thing to get on to a third, we give our best to none of these things, and each is but half done. By our hurried performance of one, we have added nothing to the way we will do another. We take time to do no one of them as well as it could be done, and we lose out all around.

Is there a remedy for this? It is hard to say. Often after we have once obligated ourselves, there is no release. So it behooves us to pick our obligations carefully.

Some may say that they have no obligations. This is an untrue and pathetic statement. It is impossible for anyone in this life to avoid obligations. We have obligations to our family and our friends. However, other obligations which are just as strong are to the past and the future. If the people who lived before us had felt no sense of obligation to the world which was to come, where would we now be? We must be willing to keep up their standards, and to add to their discoveries—to give something to this world which will aid those to follow us. The world in which we live does not have nearly so much influence on the kind of life we live as did the world of the past, for our world was prepared by the world of the past, just as we are preparing the world of the future.

It was because of their obligations to us that so many men gave their lives in the Great War. We can see now that in many ways it created a chaos, but we cannot ignore the spirit behind their efforts. It sets an example to follow—the example of giving for our descendants rather than for our contemporaries.

But we must choose. We cannot by giving part of ourselves to the present and part to the future add very greatly to either. We must choose to what we are going to devote ourselves, and adhere to it unflinchingly if we are in full perfection and contentment.

WE ARE WILLING, ARE YOU?

The issuing of a pamphlet, "Bar-gains in Secretarial Efficiency," by the Commerce-Senior Class Employment association, typifies youth's earnest attempt to seek for itself a place of economic independence in spite of adverse conditions which have existed during the past four years.

The pamphlet briefly states the qualifications of the seniors graduating in the Secretarial Commerce course, giving also the method by which a personal interview may be arranged. Approximately 600 copies of the pamphlet have been mailed to various parts of the state.

That a group of students should have the forethought and ingenuity to effect the publication and distribution of a number of pamphlets among business men of the state shows a clarity of perception of the severity of the situation which has existed and an ability to meet the challenge of the existing situation with action.

The serious problem of unemployment has faced more pertinently the college students than any other group. Those young men and young women who have taken four years of their time in which to secure University training have undoubtedly incurred obligations which must be met, yet they have had little prospect of finding employment since the number of employes, where it has not been cut, has remained at the same point. In other words, "No new men are being taken on," has been heard frequently.

With the working out of the Recovery Administration program, there is the probability that the question of seeking employment will be less grave. Members of the college group are eager for an opportunity to work to maintain an economic independence and to meet their obligations. The typical attitude of University students, to seek diligently for an opportunity of obtaining employment, is indicated by the publication issued by the members of the Commerce senior class.

Since hardly anyone can pronounce correctly "Pepper's," we suggest that an easier as well as a more descriptive name for The Kernel's take-off of his famous book be "Pepper's Diary."

And then there was the freshman who defined "symmetry" as "a place where dead people are buried"

Scandal Snickerings

By CAMERON COFFMAN

Once again we taken our little Remington "in hand" to dash off a few random shots...but there is very little to write again as usual... It seems that our contemporary, "Doc," delights in taking a crack at us at her every opportunity...We have hesitated in saying anything about her, but here goes...It seems that her greatest horror is being exposed...She is none other than a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences, Lexington.

A round of the sorority houses on Sunday afternoon revealed very little...At the Alpha house we find that Mary Elizabeth Bruce Stearns, Ky., is wearing the pin of Delta Sigma Theta...Smith also lives in Stearns, but is not in school now...At the Tridelt house we witness an episode between Sister Peg Haskins and Leslie "Algie" Scott...Peg spends some time in tantalizing Seattle with some mistletoe, but Leslie declares that "He has never kissed a girl in his life and doesn't intend to begin on Peg this late in life"...He says that he "thinks a lot of Peggie, but denies any report of a budding romance between Peggie and him"

Congratulations Bud!!

Marjorie Duncan, popular Lexingtonette, is wearing the Phidelt pin of Bud Hunt...Nice going, Bud.

"Yes He Dere, Betty"

We wonder why Kappa Betty Ann Pennington recently refused to answer her questions in the games of Truth and Consequences at the Kappa lodge.

'Tis rumored that Chlo Pleb Jane Goodwin is wearing the pin of one of the Bill Dawsons...Sigmaky Bill Dawson denies the report...By the process of elimination it must be Sigahill Bill Dawson.

Several days ago a Yale professor who was visiting the Kentucky campus approached a group of four boys and asked the direction to the Geology building...One of the group replied, "Sorry mister, we don't know, we just play football here."

Deltaw Len "Yanky" Van Ars-dale picks peculiar places to do his Sunday afternoon courting with Virginia Robinson...They climbed three flights of stairs to the top floor of one of the campus buildings...According to Van, "They were watching the sunset"...Come, come, Yank, that's an old story.

Another Club

The formation of the Worm club has recently been called to our attention...In fact we have had an invitation to become a member...Active members of the organization include Hugh Adeock, Jimmy Fahey, Don McGurk, Mary Elizabeth Dunn, Lady Bird Bosworth and her true love, Hunt Thomas, Catherine "Cab" Calloway, Ann Payne, Perry, Gales McCauley, Don Walker, Jimmy Irvin and Bonny Hutchinson...This club probably explains why Bonny Hutchinson acquired the name of "Aleworm"...The organization is purely social and non-secret.

RANDOM SHOTS: Phidelt Walter Hillemeier should get his women straight and stop calling all of his girls Nancy...This said that Alphasig T. J. Ropke took a terrific beating from Kappasig "Red" Bullock during a football game between those two lodges...Kadee pleb, Jerry Gilbert received a mouse in a con-diner when she ordered a cocoa...Kappasig Bill Howe is still wondering what became of his Alpha-mag date...Piekap Phil Howe and Kappasig Bill Howe are twin brothers...Deltaw Bill Haag takes Kappa Allee Woodward out for Sunday night supper...Takin' Geology, Allee?...Sigahill Pleb Bert Johnson is escorted to military class by fraternity brothers...Tridelt Pleb, June Curd, the Wilmore flash, has a way with Phidelt Pleb, Johnny Craig...She calls Johnny "Cutems"...Chlo Pleb, Jane Fiero is not afraid of overweight...She drinks milk...We wonder what Tridelt Peg Haskins yelled to Bobby Rounsavil in the theater recently when she was kept waiting by the Dartmouth grad...Sigahill Pleb, Bob Herron, has a new name...It is "Smoocher"...Alphasig Dick Spoles and Alphasig Edna Evans are seen together very often in the University Commons...We puzzle at Sigmaky Waller Rhodes' action at dances...Phidelt Louis Hillemeier is a sophomore (believe it or not)...

My nominations for May Queen, Tridelt Betsy Frye, with Alphasig Lillian Holmes, Kappa Mary Dantzler, Sarah Whittinghill, and Kappa Ann Payne Perry as maids of honor.

Jest Among Us

During cold winter months these frosh have one advantage over us upperclassmen, in that they can wear their caps, and still look collegiate.

LEAVES IN NOVEMBER

Must you sweep the leaves away,
Clear off the walk, make clean the lawn?

Might not one stray leaf
Blow restlessly to me?
Must each help make a high brown
pile,
Then burn and fill the air with misty smoke?

It seems 't would be a little thing
To leave them there to crackle as I step
—And answer swiftly to the gay wind's call

Swirl about me bright, dead leaves, Brush my legs with your pointed tips.

Tangle yourselves in the laces of my shoes,
Huddle in the empty nooks about my house,
And make a mingled carpet for the lawn.

Do all these things;
I shall not sweep you away.

YOUTH

Youth's heart with rapture fills each day,
Another joy has passed our way.
We have no time for eryl's woe,
Smiles leave behind a sunset glow,
Joys come in as sorrows flee.

Joy come in as sorrows flee,
They have no place in our hours of glee.
So merrily, Youth sings along—
And leaves behind—a cheerful song.

Unique and Fantastic Formations Are Found in Mechanical Hall Cases

By HELEN ALFREY

Six continents, 36 foreign countries, and 24 states are represented on the campus of the University of Kentucky.

If you don't believe it go over to Mechanical hall sometime and look over the collection of minerals, petrified wood, and hard stone plants. These specimens are on display all the time, and attached to each one is a card telling the name and the place where it was found.

There are representatives from South Africa to Alaska, the Island of Elba to Westphalia, and Maine to California.

This collection is valued at approximately $20,000. But the great worth of it is easy to understand when it is realized that there are gold nuggets, silver, amethyst, opal, turquoise, agate, emeralds, garnets, and other precious stones among this group of very rare minerals. Some of them are polished, but most of them are exactly as they are taken from the mines. It is very interesting indeed to see the very noticeable difference in the appearance of the stones that are beautifully mounted in your bracelets and rings, and those that are still in the rough. It gives you a fair idea of the extensive process that a stone undergoes in polishing.

There are many unique and fantastic formations, gorgeously hued, that will justify the well-known statement, "beauty in the rough." The six hardstone plants show a superior degree of skill and workmanship. They are flowering plants that are carved out of stone. The grace and beauty of the natural plant is retained in the tracery and coloring.

This highly-prized collection was presented to the College of Engineering in August, 1929, by the late Col. William Boyce Thompson, of New York. Colonel Thompson was a mining engineer, and became famous for his research in this work. He established the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research in Yonkers, N. Y., and the William B. Thompson Aboretum in Superior, Arizona. The College of Engineering and the University are extremely proud of this collection, which is one of the most complete of its kind.

AW, WHAT'S IN A NAME

What is the most popular name on the campus this year? Jones, I'll bet you will say. But you are mistaken. Jones is left far behind with a measly 15, but Johnson crashes through with the top score of 22, and Davis runs a close second with 18 claiming that surname.

And just look at all the colors that we have. There are Blacks, Browns, Grays, Greens, Reds, and Whites. That should make quite a colorful array at football games and other public gatherings.

Even in these days of depression we have a few automobiles left on the campus. There are two Dodges, three Fords, two Nashes, and two Willises.

We have two Hills and one Dale, two Banks and one River, and one Locke with three Keys. How is it that there are three Hogs and only one Hamm and one Bacon? (Queer Hogs!)

There is really quite a lot of nobility around here that probably no one knows about. Of the titled ranks we have five Kings, two Barons, one Count, one Earl, one Duke and one Knight.

You might not think it to look at the students, but they follow a diversity of occupations. Just listen: three Cooks, six Bakers, one Carpenter, two Farmers, five Gardeners, four Hunters, 16 Millers, one Miner, two Paynters, four Pot-ters, one Fiddler, three Shepherds, one Shipman, one Sheriff, three Tanners, one Teller, and one Butler. Perhaps they are working their way through school.

And what do you think of this? There are three Fields, one Marsh, one Meadow, one Park, three Woods, one Heath on the campus, but only two Akers. How did they get it all in such small space?

Students kick about our drives, but you couldn't blame them, for this is all we have: two Rodes, one Longstreet, one Alley, and one Lane. Have you noticed all the animals and birds this semester? You couldn't have missed them for there are two Foxes, three Lyons, one Lamb, one Chick two Bulls, one L'ach, three Crams, one Crowe, one Eagle, three Fish, one Bee, 13 Martins, and one Swann. Let's start a zoo, what do you say?

Of all the sweet young co-eds, there is only one Honey. The rec-

By BEN BLACK

Tonight will be the last showing of "The Invisible Man" at the Ben All. This is a film version of H. G. Wells' fantastic story; and, all in all, is a thoroughly mystifying presentation, and a triumph of the photographic art. Imagine books and other articles floating around in space, clothes that seem to have no one in them, yet move around as if they did; and an amazing invisible madman who, in his playful moods, murders, causes riots and wrecks trains for pasture.

The story begins with the invention of a drug by Claude Rains which causes him to become invisible and mad. He is unable to find an antidote to enable him to return to normalcy, so he sets out with a mad dream of conquering the world. He comes very nearly being successful too; but he is finally captured and dies in the arms of his sweetheart Gloria Stuart.

In addition to Gloria Stuart and Claude Rains the cast includes William Harrigan, Dudley Digges, Una O'Connor, Henry Travers and Forrester Harvey. The film was directed by James Whale and produced by Universal.

Following "The Invisible Man" Jack Holt will be shown in "Master of Men." This picture gives us Jack Holt in one of his best and most typical roles, the big strong he-man. It is another one of those pictures where a strong man is ruined in his thirst for power.

All four Marx brothers in their maddest, craziest, merriest, absurdity, "Duck Soup," is the current attraction at the Kentucky. And, in addition to these, dozens of girls headed by Raquel Torres, and plenty of music. Also Louis Calhern, who plays the part of the villain, and Margaret Dumont, the dignified actress, who has previously appeared with them, are in the cast.

The mythical country of Freedonia is badly in need of money, and Groucho becomes the dictator. Harpo and Chico are the two spies of the rival country of Sylvania. Groucho plays upon their weakness for food and girls and hires them to work for him too. But Raquel Torres, another spy, causes Groucho quite a bit of trouble. Finally to get rid of his enemies he declares war. For a time things look bad for Freedonia, but it all comes out O. K. in the end.

To herald the lowering of their prices to ten cents for matinee and fifteen cents for nights the Strand has presented an unusually strong bill this week. Yesterday and Sunday "Saturday's Millions" was shown; and today and tomorrow, "Take a Chance," will be shown. "Take a Chance," is one of the latest of musical pictures with plenty of dancing and an abundance of good music. At least five songs, "New Deal Rhythm," "It's Only a Paper Moon," "I Never Took a Lesson in My Life," "Should I Be Sweet," and a new version of "Eadie Was a Lady," may be recommended.

This film details the adventures of four side-show entertainers who try their luck on Broadway. The quartette, composed of James Dunn, June Knight, Cliff Edwards and Lillian Roth find that the great white way isn't much different from Main street; and they climb to the top by a series of episodes in which they get involved with a gangster, work in a crooked gambling joint and put on a musical comedy successfully. The supporting cast is composed of Charles Rogers, Lillian Roth, Lona Andre and Robert Gleckler.

There is a very serious question picking wives. It would be hard to find any two men to agree on the qualities to be sought in either.—Dean Harry N. Irwin.

SHOP SIGHTS

By MARY REES LAND

Baynham is showing shoes of a new material, that is, new for shoes. It is genuine sealskin AND is scuff-proof. They come in many styles including oxfords and the more dressy ties. The Spectator is among the latter type. It is a brown tailored shoe with a slanted pattern of brown. For the watch of a better adjective we call this shoe "smart."

Stockings are usually mentioned in connection with shoes. Mitchell, Baker & Smith have hose for afternoon called "Queen's Lace." They do not look like a mesh but like a real lace pattern. They are too dainty to hang from a brick mantle, but such a gift from Santy would be appreciated.

"Hot-Cha Bath Wraps" made by Cannon are on display in Embury's lingerie department. They can be used for almost any purpose and it is said that fashionable hotels in Europe furnish them to their guests instead of towels. They are made of terry cloth and have a white cord belt that is so easy to tie. They are white with gay stripes, solid colors with deeper colored stripes, or—well, see for yourself. They are laundered like a towel and are quite warm.

DOWNTOWN: A long, black afternoon dress of a fashionable cut is to be seen at The College Shop. It has tiered net edged with gold sleeves. You know, "the gleam of her ivory arm through the lace of her dress" idea. The rabbit's wool sport anklets at Denton's to wear to the games and for skating, etc., come in solid colors. After they are washed and dry, brush the nap gently and it will return to its former state.

Now...in regard to your love life

Many a girl would confess to boredom at resting her shapely head against nothing but the usual plain colored shirts. So Arrow is giving the ladies—and you—a welcome change with a dazzling new assortment of fancy (but not too fancy) shirts. Subdued stripes, neat patterns, small checks and plaids. All Sanforized Shrink—which means no shrinkage—ever!

A curve in the road and a hillside
Clear cut against the sky,
A tall tree tossed against the heavens,

With a poet's mind and eye
And he put it down on canvas

Phi Beta Honors Marjorie Powell At Pledge Rites

Honorary Membership Conferred on Popular Coed Guignol Star

MARJORIE POWELL

By BETTYE MAYE
Miss Marjorie Powell was awarded the title of honorary member in Phi Beta, professional musical and dramatic fraternity for women, at a formal pledge ceremony at 3 p. m. yesterday in the Women's building.

The honor was conferred in recognition of her outstanding achievement in dramatic work and dancing.

Miss Powell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Powell, of Baldwin, Long Island, New York; and is a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences. She is an outstanding member of Strollers, and is also affiliated with the Spanish club, and the Women's Athletic association.

Miss Powell is well-known to the Guignol patrons, having done highly favorable work in "The Critic," "The Circle," and "Midsummer-Night's Dream." Especially will she be remembered for her interpretation of "Titanic" in the latter production. She assumes the role of Jane Moonlight in the play which opened last night at the Little theater.

Miss Powell possesses remarkable talent in dancing and has made quite a name for herself in that field. She took part in the past two Stroller productions and danced in the radio talent revue at the Kentucky theater last year. She was a member of the former dance team, "Flo, Marge, and Tommy," and has been a featured artist at the Phoenix and Lafayette Night clubs. Her work has been seen in various campus activities and parties.

She will be initiated in December at the regular time of initiation.

Phi Delta Kappa Holds Luncheon

Phi Delta Kappa, national honorary educational fraternity, held a luncheon meeting Friday at the University commons. Plans will be discussed for the annual initiation to be conducted sometime this week.

The speaker, E. E. Van Dyke, of Griffon-Hagen and Associates, was here conducting a governmental survey of higher educational institutions in the interests of re-organizing of state government.

Professor Armstrong of the College of Education, has resigned as president of the fraternity and Prof. L. E. Meece is the newly appointed president. The present officers are: L. E. Meece, president; Lewis Clifton, secretary; and C. S. Ross, counselor.

Professor Alfred Joy of Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, found that the earth is whirling about its star system at 9,000 miles per minute. Compared with the earth, the fastest airplane travels only at a snail's pace.

The nine new buildings on the campus have been placed in charge of student janitors.

All the current rumors about the signing of a new coach for the Wildcat football team are truly ballyhoo and nothing more. According to the athletic council and "Daddy" Boles, the council has not approached anyone in regard to the coaching situation and will not consider this matter until after the Thanksgiving game with Tennessee. Every fan in Lexington has his idea about the coach and several different men have been reported to have been engaged. It reminds us of the boys who yelled, Wolf! Wolf!, and when the wolf did arrive, no one would believe it and the prowler escaped unmolested. When the coach is signed, no one will believe it until he appears in person next fall.

yards. The placement for the extra point was blocked.
Kentucky put up a better defense in the second half and twice came within scoring distances, once when Rupert barely missed a pass over the goal line. Neither team made any more attempts to score during the rest of the game.
The Kentucky team seemed to have been stricken with the suddenness of the Green Wave's attack and never recovered till too late. However, the star Tulane backs were removed from the game soon after the first quarter. In all justice to Kentucky the weather was unlike anything the Cats had encountered this year. With the beginning of the second half, the Kentuckians changed their heavy blue jerseys for the light white ones and they seemed to play a better game.

Intramural

By J. B. WELLS

All boxers and wrestlers are urged to begin their training as soon as possible, and not to postpone the date for beginning the training period. It is very important that the training rules be kept since disqualification will be the result of any noncompliance. Some may wonder at the department's setting down such strict rules, but the whole of the thing is to eliminate "that tired feeling" which has usually accompanied the bouts heretofore.

A decided interest has been shown in intramural football. This has been shown by the fact that no team has failed to practice on the day set. The Independent dormitory team and the Pi Kappa Alpha team apparently have the strongest lines with the "Alpha Gamma Delta" running a close second. However, we may be wrong since weight does not always mean strength.

A vote was polled last week regarding the eligibility of numeral and lettermen. The result favored the disqualification of men who have won awards in the respective sports. Another phase of the question was brought up also. The resolution stated that regardless of when or where it was received the award renders them ineligible to participate in the respective intramural sports.

Dr. Kiefer, UK Grad, Dies at Her Home

Dr. Helen A. Kiefer, 27 years old, a graduate of the University in the class of 1927, died Sunday at her home in Henderson.
Doctor Kiefer received her bachelor's degree in zoology and took her pre-medical work at the University, and then attended the Women's Medical College of Philadelphia. While here she was described as a brilliant student and was well known in Lexington. She was a member of Mortar Board and was president of the Women's Self-Governing association and of the Pryor Pre-Medical society. Also she was active in W. A. A. work.

Dean Taylor Gives Principal Address

Dean William S. Taylor of the College of Education was principal speaker at a meeting of the University Training School Parent-Teacher association held in the auditorium of the school Wednesday afternoon. He spoke on the importance of supporting the Community Chest drive being conducted this week.

In a talk on books by Miss Lucy Gragg, school librarian, the speaker stressed the importance of books to the development of the child and the great value derived from them. Several numbers were played by the high school band, under the direction of Mr. Louis Friedman.
A short business session was held, presided over by Mrs. Levi J. Horlacher, president. It was announced that no December meeting would be held.

BOOKS ADDED TO LIBRARY IN 1933

Margaret King, U. K. Librarian, Announces in Annual Report that 19,954 Publications Have Been Received

During the college year 1932-33, the University library added 19,954 publications, according to the annual report made by Miss Margaret King, head librarian. Of this number, 266 books and 413 periodicals were purchased while the remaining 19,275 were gifts. These acquisitions bring the total number of books in the library to 148,507.

One of the most important gifts was that of the president and trustees of Centre College, which consisted of 4,079 volumes of the "serial set" and 2,683 miscellaneous volumes of the United States' Public Documents. About 515 of the new additions were duplicates of the collection brought to Lexington by the transfer of the Kentucky geological survey. Many other donations, ranging from one volume to hundreds, have been received from time to time and have added materially to the collections.

A special effort has been made during the past year to acquire an adequate and useful collection of Kentucky historical source material. Pamphlets, bills, letters, pictures, and the like have been assembled, photostating processes being used on the most valuable.

Popularization of library work has been carried on to a great extent this past year. Radio talks, publication of a staff paper, and preparation of 40 different exhibits in the various display cases of the library have been the chief movements toward this end. An increased attendance and use of the Browning room, one of the library's newest features, was also noted.

The average attendance of the general library was 1,280 per day, or 8,122 a week. Total circulation for the year was 51,382.

RUPP UNDECIDED ABOUT SQUAD'S PROSPECTS

"I will not say whether I have a good or a bad club until I see them in action against an opposing team."

With these words Coach Adolph Rupp expressed his opinion as to what the public can expect out of his varsity basketball candidates during the coming semester.

Working principally on fundamentals, Coach Rupp has exactly two weeks in which to perfect his squad for its first game with the alumni, the night of December 5. Following the alumni game, the Wildcats will meet Georgetown December 9. Marshall comes here December 14, and the night of December 16, the court artists will engage the University of Cincinnati Bearcats, this being the last game before the Christmas holidays.

Coach Rupp had been shifting his men quite a bit in order to find the best possible combination, and the only man who seems to have cinched himself a regular berth is "Little Bill" Davis, but should Lewis improve any he will give the captain a battle. Lewis is only a sophomore and lacks the experience that DeMolsey possesses, but he has the height and seems to love the game.

Andy Anderson seems to have the inside track on the other guard post, but Sam Potter, who is at present occupied with football, will be in there giving Andy a royal battle when the pigskin season ends. Edwards is another guard who is not to be "sneezed at."

At forwards another fight is being waged among Lawrence, Tucker, Settle, and Mester. Although Mester is reporting for practice every day he will not be eligible until the second semester. Jerome, another crack forward, has been on the sick list and has not practiced for two weeks.

During the past week Coach Rupp scrimmaged the first squad against the second stringers and the boys as a whole were unable to hit the hoops, although in two scrimmages against a group of freshman basketballers the results were: first game, Varsity 52, Freshmen 19; second, Varsity 53, Freshmen 10. This was not the official freshman team, but just a group of players selected by the coaches from the freshman ranks.

of her daughter's two suitors and arranges a marriage between Jan and the other suitor.

After everything has been fixed, she leaves and then returns again after 25 years to find that she has a grandson who looks no older than she, and her husband is on his deathbed. This is the first time in her two visits that he recognizes her. Mrs. Dunster Foster Pettit plays the part of Mrs. Moonlight very capably.

The parts of Willie Ragg and Percy Midding, courtesies of Jane, played by Marjorie Powell, are the high points of the production. Ole Williamson, in the role of Willie, and Howard Smathers, as Percy, give authentic representations of the swain of 1905. The other roles are well handled but those of these two men and that of Mrs. Pettit are outstanding.

anese folk song; and "The Peddler," a Russian folk song. In this group Mr. Roberts did not do quite so well, due to the fact that his voice was slightly uncertain on extremely high and low tones.

The next group of songs was composed of German classics. The audience must have had more appreciation for the German language than French or Italian because they applauded the renditions in this group more. "Aus Meinen Grossen Schmerzen," by Robert Franz, was fairly well given. Three songs by Robert Schumann were well received by the audience. "Wohnen" by Franz Schubert was most appreciated. As an encore number Mr. Roberts sang "Die Lotosblume," by Robert Schumann.

As his fifth and last group Mr. Roberts chose a melodramatic quartet of selections, "You in a Gondola," by Robert C. Clarke; "The Midshipmite," by Stephen Adams; "I'm Wearing Awa," by Arthur Foot; and "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride," by Geoffrey Harra.

RALPH WINFREY TO DIRECT

Ralph Winfrey, junior in the commerce college, has been selected to lead the Guignol orchestra during the production of "Mrs. Moonlight" during this week.
This will be Winfrey's first opportunity to direct the orchestra, although he has played with the University band for three years. He has first chair, first cornet in the band.

Cooperation

Rooting Sections and College Newspapers

ISN'T it unusual for you to associate a rooting section scene in the stadium with your campus newspaper—the Kentucky Kernel? Yes, it is, but let's look at it from the following point of view:

A rooting section must cooperate in a precise and minute manner, the slightest lack of cooperation may ruin its successful functioning. Isn't such a lack always ruinous to the successful operation of any group? Well, therein lies the association.

The Kentucky Kernel needs the cooperation of every U. K. student.... It requires your support. It's inevitable that you patronize many business institutions. Many such institutions advertise in the Kentucky Kernel, thereby furnishing you a newspaper. Why not support them?

So, let's cooperate.... patronize Kentucky Kernel advertisers.... let them know it.... and aid this student undertaking.
